

Galvanizing Marion

The desire to help area residents take pride in Marion is why Ohio Galvanizing Corporation created and donated new directional signs to be placed around the Marion community. Pictured with the new signs are from left, Mayor Scott Schertzer; Diane Watson, director, Marion Area Convention and Visitors Bureau; Steve Badertscher, president, Badertscher Communications; Mike Tripp, Marion County Fair; Andy Harper, vice president student services and institutional advancement at Marion Technical College; Sherry Hall, site manager at the Harding Home State Memorial; Jay Murphy, sales manager, Ohio Galvanizing; and Steve Conway, signpost sales, Nucor Steel Marion, Inc. The new signs will guide visitors to Marion to its various attractions, such as the Harding Home, Harding Memorial or Marion County Fairgrounds. "Galvanizing Marion: Igniting a Passion in Our Community" is the company's theme for its community involvement initiative. Badertscher Communications was called in to design the signs. Another local company, Nucor Steel Marion, Inc., donated the signposts for the project. PHOTO COURTESY BADERTSCHER COMMUNICATIONS